WALL WORK

The cunning of modern invention is shown in nothing better than the simulation of what used to be heavy and laborious achievements wrought in sheets and panels and squares, to be applied in a way that might be the despair of the old workmen. Wall-papering does not describe it. The effect is far away from anything that is conveyed by that term. We have the first artists in this line, and we choose from the whole range of the market in material.

ODD-FELLOWS' CONVENTION.

Reports of the Various Officers Read-A Big Attendance.

Four and forty years ago the Grand Encampment Independent Order of Odd-fellows was instituted in Indiana, and the attendance and reports of the encampment held at the Grand Lodge Hall yesterday show the past twelve-month to have been the most successful period in the history of the order in this State.

S. P. Stroup, grand patriarch, reported that sixteen new encampments had been added under his administration. He also made official announcement of the death of three of the most prominent and well-beloved patriarchs-John W. McQuiddy, grand instructor, past grand master and past grand representative, who died March 13, 1891; William Wallace, past grand patriarch and trustee of Grand Lodge, April 9, 1891, and Jonathan S. Harvey, past grand master, past grand patriarch and past grand representative, April 19, 1891, all residents of this city. The report of Grand Scribe Foster showed the number of effective en-campments in the State to be 162, with 9,103 contributing members, and $15,350.25 expended in relief and charity.

Grand Treasurer Haughey reported as-sets to be: Cash on hand, $5,197.63, and share of Grand Lodge Hall stock, $4,450, making a total of $9,647.63. Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Grand Patriarch-John W. Cooper, Kokomo. Grand High Priest-John B. Cockrum, Boon-

Grand Senior Warden-J. L. Weaver, Warsaw. Grand Junior Warden-J. S. Myers, New Castle. Grand Sentinel-J. S. Watson, Indianapolis. Deputy Grand Sentinel-George Kuhn, Cam-

Grand Scribe-B. F. Foster, Indianapolis. Grand Treasurer-Theo. P. Haughey, Indian-The chief interest in the elections was the contest for grand junior warden, in which there were fifteen or sixteen candidates. After several ballots the choice fell upon Mr. Myers, of New Castle. W. H. Leedy was appointed grand instructor.

The Indiana Grand Lodge, I. O. C. F., a much larger delegate body, will meet to-Amusement Matters. Mr. W. H. Crane's thoroughly artistic and amusing impersonation of "The Senator" delighted an audience that completely filled the Grand Opera-house last night. The comedy is clean cut, bright and original, and the perfermance of it is one of the highest excellence throughout. Tonight will be the last opportunity to see it. as there will be no matinee performance. In "The Senator" Mr. Crane shows that versatility that characterizes him as a great artist. In "The Dazzler," one of the undisputed farce-comedy successes, which is an-nounced for English's Friday and Saturday, there are three people who could make almost any entertainment of this kind a "go." They are Kate Castleton, Lena Mer-ville and Joseph Ott. There are twenty comedians and soubrettes in the cast. Seats will be on sale to-morrow.

The Thanksgiving day attractions at the city theaters will be the English comedy, "Jane," at the Grand, "The Nabobs" at English's, and the "Shadow Detective" at the Park. The day before Thanksgiving Gilmore's Band will give two concerts at

The F. M. B. A. Is in Favor of an Amalgamation with the Alliance-- President Stillwell's Address-The Committees All Named.

The delegates to the F. M. B. A. convention assembled in the Criminal Court room yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It was a sturdy-looking assemblage, and filled the room where justice is generally meted out comfortably full. The arrangements for the F. M. B. A. to meet in the Criminal Court room were made some time ago, and the court, which is now in session, was moved into the grand jury room, Judge Cox and Prosecutor Holtzman kindly consenting to the inconvenience. The F. M. B. A. will hold no open sessions, as the Alliance is doing, thereby resembling in many ways our own Board of Secret Works. The association will not complete its business before noon Friday. Yesterday afternoon, for an hour, the meeting was open to the publicand was largely attended.

It was just ten minutes past 2 o'clock when President Stillwell, of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association, rapped the crowd to order with three strokes of a good-sized gavel on Judge Cox's much-prized desk and announced that the Cass County Quartet, composed of gentlemen only, would entertain the assemblage with a song. The New Waverly Quartet wouldn't command any extraordinary salary from a first-class opera company manager, but first-class opera company manager, but there was plenty of F. M. B. A. spirit and strength in the volume of sound that shook the cob-webs loose from the ceiling and caused the iron shutters to rattle with dismay. The quartet was loudly encored in that hearty manner that shows deep appreciation, and responded by singing over again the last verse of the "Hayseed" song that had been proviously rendered.

When the applause had subsided suffi-ciently President Stillwell, who is one of the best-natured looking men anybody every saw, introduced Mayor Sullivan, who delivered a brief address. He reviewed the causes that had made it possible for the farmers of the country to organize for protection in a manner that was sure to bring good results to those most interested, and then he reviewed the rapid growth in membership and importance of the F. M. B. A. and the various other industrial associations. He also took occasion to say that Indianapolis always stood ready and willing to extend the hand of welcome and good fellowship to any organization that good fellowship to any organization that has for its cardinal principles the education of the masses. Mayor Sullivan was uproariously cheered.

Following him, a prayer was delivered by Rev. Donaldson, of Illinois, and then Dr. Stockwell, of Putnam county, respond-ed briefly to the Mayor's address.

At this point, while every body was in the best of humor, the Cass County Quartet again got in its work, and with such effect again got in its work, and with such effect that it looked for awhile as though the great business conclave of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association would safely glide into a real old-fashioned Methodist revival. Every once in awhile one of the farmer singers would unloose his stentorian lungs and cry "Halleluia" with a wonderful gusto, and there would be a general hand-shaking. It was not until the quartet ran out of verses that the asthe quartet ran out of verses that the as-semblage regained its wonted calm and dignity, and the proceedings went forward.

President Stillwell then announced that a recess of five minutes would be taken and that during that time he would expect every one not a member of the F. M. B. A. to vamose, as at the expiration of ten minutes, at the furthest, the convention would go into executive session for the purpose of transacting such business as would come up. After the rooms had been cleared and the last lingering reporter had reand the last lingering reporter had re-luctantly left the chamber of secrecy, Presi-dent Stillwell again pounded the already much-abused table severely with his gavel, and called the delegates to order. When the roll was called 165 delegates, representing seven States—Indiana, Illi-nois, Missouri, Iowa, Kentucky, West Vir-ginia and Ohio—responded to their names. President Stillwell then read his annual address, which consumed an hour's time. address, which consumed an hour's time. In it he reviewed, with great particularity and regard for detail, the work of the F. M. B. A. since its inception, dwelling with especial length on the public meetings and picnics of the association held during the past year. He also felicitated himself on the everywhere apparent interest being manifested in reform questions generally. The address was received

From the reports and discussions that followed the president's address, it was as-certained that the F. M. B. A. now has a membership of between 200,000 and 250,000, and is operating in fifteen different States. The convention now in session is only represented by States that have a State organization. The financial condition of the association was reported to be very good, with a healthy balance in the treasury. At this morning's session, Secretary John P. Stille. of Illinois. a very affable gentleman. Will submit he is in Purdue working for the degree of his annual report, in which a good civil engineer. It was decided then that deal of information of a financial nature the first protest, with reference to profeswill be scattered broadcast - among the delegates. Secretary Stillwell averred to a Journal reporter, shortly after the meeting, that the question of amalgamation with the Alliance was not discussed, and that no steps were taken toward appointing s committee to consider the matter. One of the important matters transacted yesterday afternoon was the appointment of the various committees. They are as

Committee on Finance and Revenues-C. E. Palmer, litinois; D. H. Kennedy, Indiana; H. C. Lockney, West Virginia; James Stewart, Illinois, and Thomas Wadsworth, Indiana. Committee on Laws and Constitution-Jones Touty, Illinois; C. E. Market, Missouri; J. R. Korner, Indiana; T. G. Fallin, Kentucky, and A. B. Tuomas, West Virginia. Committee on Appeals and Grievances-C. W. Daggy. Indiana; T. W. Wilson, Illinois, and Isaac Harland, Missouri. Committee on Unwritten Work-S. S. Gauze, Iowa; B. F. Street, Indiana; N. M. Barnett. Illi-nois; W. M. Crampton, Illinois, and D. F. Clark, Indiana. Committee on Resolutions—C. M. Sargent, Illinois; A. Rogers, Indiana; H. E. Taubeneck, Illinois; I. N. Miller, Indiana, and I. M. Curley, Committee on Credentials—F. J. Claypool, Indiana; W. B. Stroud, Illinois; A. A. Cravens, Indiana; S. H. Wilson, West Virginia, and B. A.

The most important of these committees are those on finance and on resolutions. Nearly all of the committees held conferences last night and will submit their reports to-day. Although Secretary Stille told a Journal reporter yesterday afternoon that the question of amalgamation was not broached by the convention, three delegates interviewed last night frankly admitted that the subject had been discussed and a fusion of the F. M. B. A. and the Alliance was practically agreed upon. The fact that a probable amalgamation of the two associations has been so strenuously denied all along was a very good omen that it was about to materialize.

"Mercy Tempered with Justice." Yesterday, in Judge Buskirk's court, Harry Johnson, Charles Harrison and William Warner, the men who were arrested Monday night for gambling in the Harrison saloon, at First and West streets, were arraigned. Johnson was released, it being shown that he was not the keeper of a gambling-house and that this was his first arrest. Harrison was fined $10 and costs. Warner swore that he was not gambling, and Judge Buskirk ordered him into custody pending the filing of informa-tion against him for perjury. He was returned to jail.

INDIANA CROPS.

Never in Her History Has the State Been Blest with Such a Bountiful Yield.

Hon. William A. Peelle, chief of the Bu reau of Statistics, has compiled the tables relating to the cereal crops for the year i891, and, in discussing the results, declares that the several crop yields are the best that have been known for years. "Hardly in the history of Indiana," says he, "and certainly not since the Indiana Bureau of Statistics was organized, has there been such a generally prolific yield of the cereal crops as that which characterized the present year. While the conditions were at times unfavorable and there were strong probabilities that the growing crops would be more or less injured, the changes in climatic conditions came in time to overcome, or, at least, greatly ameliorate the threatened damage, and the results show a crop year which may properly be called phenomenal. Indiana has harvested some magnificent crops of wheat, some excellent crops of corn and has grown some exceptionally large crops of clover and timothy hay, oats, barley and rye, but it is seldom that all of these crops have been as abundant as in 1891, when each outstripped the average of former years." ontstripped the average of former years."

Its Protest Against Purdue Thrown Out by the Athletic Executive Committee.

The executive committee appointed to hear the protest of DePauw University against Purdue University over the result of the last foot-ball games between the two colleges, met at the Denison House yesterday afternoon. The gentlemen present were: F. H. Stegmaier, of Bloom ington, chairman of the committee; W. J. Fogarty, of Rose Polytechnic, secretary, and R. F. Davidson, of Butler. J. W. Noel, representing Purdue, and E. O. Smith, for DePauw. For evidence in behalf of the two colleges, Robert A. Lackey, against whom DePauw filed charges of professionalism, and J. L. Davis and Dr. Stanley Coulter, the latter being questioned as to what constituted matriculation in a college. The session with great applause by the delegates, who lasted two hours, and was a very hotly-plainly have the most profound regard for contested one from beginning to end. De Pauw had two protests against Purdue, the first of which was (a) that Robert A. Lackey is a transient athlete: (b) that he is not a regularly matriculated student of Purdue University. Mr. Noel read a certificate from President Smart to the effect that Lackey is a bona fide student of Purdue and has been regularly matriculated as such. A statement was then read from Luckey in which he says that he has never received any compensation whatever for coaching, that he was not a professional, and that the first protest, with reference to professionalism, be barred out, as the constitution has nothing to say of professionalism.
The second protest of DePanw was that fouls had been made by Purdue; that the weather was unfit for playing, and that only the first half of the game was played. Purdue met these charges by reading the rules of the game, and giving citations of other games that have been played in sloppy, rainy weather. The defense also gave positive proof that DePauw refused to play the second half of the game much against Purdue's wishes. Lengthy and convincing arguments were presented by E. O. Smith, for DePauw, and J. W. Noel, for Purdue. The committee then went into secret session, and in an hour's time came cut and read its decision, as fol-

We, the undersigned members of the execu-tive committee of the Indiana Inter-collegiate Athletic Association, in session to consider the protest filed by E. O. Smith, mangaer of the DePauw foot-ball team, against Robert A. Lackey, of the Purdue team, a copy of which protest is filed herewith. Also, the protest of E. O. Smith, herewith filed. In consideration of the evidence here duced, we hereby render the following de 1. That Robert A. Lackey is a bona-fide stu dent of Purdue, and as such is entitled to participate in all athletic sports of that university.

2. That the other protest is without foundation, and is considered annulled.

REV. F. C. HOOD INSTALLED

As Paster of the East Washington-Street Pres byterian Church-The Services.

Last evening services interesting and impressive were held at the East Washingtonstreet Presbyterian Church, in the presence of a large congregation. The occasion was the installation of the new pastor, Rev. Dr. F. C. Hood. Rev. J. A. Rondthater, of the Tabernacle, presided, and proposed the constitutional questions. Rev. Dr. M. L. Haines, of the First Presbyterian Church, delivered the sermon on the subject of "The Necessary Soldier Qualities of a Christian." Rev. R. V. Hunter, of the Seventh Presbyterian Church, gave the charge to the pastor and Dr. Rondthaler to the people.

The newly-installed pastor has been conducting the services of the church for the past two months, and has been doing excellent work, which is evident not only from the increase of the Sunday audiences, but in the large addition of new members. The congregation is making arrangements for the creation of a building fund for the erection of a larger church, as it is already evident, by the increased attendance, that the old building is too limited in capacity. Dr. Hood came here from New Castle. He is a graduate of the State University and the Theological Seminary at Princeton.

STRAW-BOARD-WORKS CASE

Answer Looking Toward a Quick Compromise Filed in the Federal Court.

Present Status of the Case-Cases on the Federal Court Docket-Violators of the Postal Laws Fined-Minor Court Notes.

In the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, the case of the Indianapolis Waterworks Company against the American Straw-board Trust was given an unexpected turn. The defendant, by Jump, Lamb & Davis, entered an appearance to the complainant's bill, and a stipulation was effected between the parties as follows:

The defendant desiring, before the application for a preliminary injunction, as prayed in the complainant's bill, is heard, to construct at its works, in Noblesville, Ind., and between the works and the White river, intercepting the water flow-ing from said works in its course to the White river, filters of a kind not beretofore used by it, it (said defendant) agrees to put in said filters as soon as material can be gotten upon the ground and the work done, and to that end agrees that it will run out the charge of material now in said mill and in process of manufacture, which would be lost to the defendant if the mill should now stop running, and that it will not take into the mill after Nov. 13, 1891, any new material until the filters are completed, and that in exhausting the charge of material now in process of manufacture in the mill the de-fendant will not run it after the hour of 6 o'clock of the afternoon of Nov. 21, 1891, and defendant will not after that hour and date again flow water from the mill into White river until the filters are completed. In consideration of the foregoing the complainant agrees that it will not, before Monday, Nov. 23, 1891, call up for hearing its application for a preliminary injunction against the defendant, and that it will not on or after the 23d of November, call up its application so long as while defendant's said mill at Noblesville shall be and re-

A Peculiar Witness. In the hearing of the case of Catharine Dieter vs. Michael Gimball, to recover on a note, which has been on trial in Judge J. W. Harper's court for several days, the proceedings yesterday afternoon were rendered peculiarly interesting by the introduction on the stand of an exceedingly trying witness in the person of a lady who, if she had been able to speak, could not have given her testimony in English, but who, as a matter of fact, could not utter a word. She was a German and a deaf mute. The services of an interpreter were utilized, and while there was much in the taking of the unfortunate woman's testimony which was amusing, there was much more that was pathetic and painful

CAUGHT IN THE COLD.

A Very Short Gas Supply Yesterday-Many Complaints Made.

If the supply of natural gas furnished by the local companies is as scant this morning as it was yesterday morning, and weather remains as cold there will be considerable suffering in a great many families that do not have access to any other kind of fuel. The complaints about an insufficient amount of gas that poured in yesterday morning did not come from any one quarter of the city, but from all over town. Early in the morning the Trust company telephoned to Dr. Edenharter, of the City Hospital, to turn off the gas, but he refused. Leaving word with the engineer to allow the gas turned off in his absence he came down town and laid the matter before the Health Board. The directors of the company were then seen, and it was decided to leave the gas on for a few days, or until arrangements can be made to burn coal or crude oil. In West Indianapolis the low supply caused considerable agitation. A delegation of citizens called on the company, and after considerable argument succeeded in inducing the company to increase the supply somewhat. A Journal reporter was informed that many consumers were forced to burn wood in their stoves. The Trust company claims that the low pressure is due to the fact that sixteen wells in Madison county from which it receives its supply have been dis-connected, pending a decision in the local court regarding right of way. The company has an excellent opportunity to reduce the pressure here by monkeying with the reducing stations.

BOARD OF SECRET WORKS.

A Session Held Yesterday in the Star Chamber-New Sewerage Survey.

The Board of Secret Works held another session in the executive chamber yesterday afternoon. A Journal reporter stepped into the reception chamber about 3 o'clock, just as Manager Kenyon, who preceded him by a few feet, opened the door which gives entrance into the holy of holies. The members of the board gathered around engaged in secret confab, which was disturbed long enough for one of the members to hastily lock the door. As the board's clerk was out in town some place it could not be ascertained whether the august triumvirate was considering a street-rail road franchise, a water-works contract or the streets to be paved this year. It was learned, however, that the board has decided bereafter to pave no street until a sewer is put in, and has ordered City Engineer Mansfield to increase his force and push to completion a survey for a new sewerage system. Mr. Mansfield will hire two extra men.

Exposition Day to the Schools. The fourth Friday in this month and Feb. 11, 1892, Washington's birthday (old style), have been set apart as exposition days, on which a programme of patriotic, historical and social exercises is to be rendered by the public schools of the State.

The plan originated with Mrs. S. S. Harrell, secretary of the educational committee of Indiana for the world's fair, and is fully indorsed by the State Department of Public Instruction. The first celebration is near at hand, and the day offers an excellent opportunity to give the school children of this State not only a great store of valuable information regarding Indiana, but will strengthen their love for the State and plant in their hearts a sense of personal responsibility concerning the welfare of its people. On this day it is expected that every child will make a personal contribution toward the preparation of a creditable exhibit of the educational work of the State to be made at the world's fair. For this purpose every child is expected to bring I cent and no more, to be used for the purpose indicated. The aggregate will be a handsome amount.
